Introduction:

“IceBreakers” was organized by the HR Club at Geethanjali College of Engineering and Technology on 07/01/2026. Icebreaker activities play an important role in creating a positive and interactive environment by encouraging participation, communication, and critical thinking among participants.

The purpose of this Icebreakers Club activity is to engage members through an interesting exercise titled “Find the Wrong Sentence”, where participants are given a set of sentences and are required to identify the incorrect or inappropriate sentence from each set.

This activity helps in improving attention to detail, logical reasoning, language comprehension, and team collaboration. By presenting this activity in a fun and challenging format, the Icebreakers Club aims to enhance learning while building confidence and strengthening group interaction.

This report documents the planning, execution, and outcomes of the activity and highlights its effectiveness in promoting active involvement and cognitive skills among participants.

Objectives:

The main objectives of the “Find the Wrong Sentence” icebreaker activity are:

1. To improve participants’ observation and analytical skills
2. To enhance language comprehension and logical thinking
3. To encourage active participation and teamwork
4. To build confidence in expressing opinions
5. To create an energetic and positive group atmosphere

Coordinators:

P. Keerthi Chandana – 24R11E0040

M. Madhavi – 24R11E0037

M. Anusha – 24R11E0033

B. Harika – 24R11E0023

S. Lavanya – 24R11E0051

G. Santhosh – 24R11E10022

Conclusion:

The Icebreakers Club activity “Find the Wrong Sentence” proved to be an effective and enjoyable learning exercise. It successfully combined fun with skill development, making it easier for participants to learn and engage actively.

Overall, the activity contributed to improved cognitive skills, teamwork, and a positive group atmosphere, demonstrating the value of icebreaker activities in club and organizational settings. This activity not only reinforced key HRM principles but also encouraged teamwork, time management, and critical thinking—skills essential for future HR professionals. We extend our congratulations to the winners and appreciation to all participants for making this event a memorable success.
